» CJPNA MAKES MERRY AT HOLIDAY PARTY

Charles Jacobus Park neighbors rang in the holiday season in early December at the CJPNA Holiday Party at J&B's Blue Ribbon Bar and Grill. More than 50 CJPNA members enjoyed a festive night that featured a great buffet, some good natured bowling rivalries and holiday trinkets for the kids.

The CJPNA board decided to revive the holiday party after members requested more opportunities to meet and mingle with friends and neighbors in the colder months. The result was a successful night that has led to discussions of future picnics, Halloween festivities and more. If you have a suggestion for a CJPNA gathering or celebration, please contact Steve Flewellen, CJPNA president, at sflewellen@cyganiakplanning.com.

Cold Day, Hot Chili: CJPNA's Chili Cook-Off Generates Heat and Prizes

Story and Photos by Gary Porter

IT WAS A CHILLY MORNING start to the Saturday of the CJPNA Chili Cook-Off, coming off sub-zero wind chills from the day before. As members began arriving at the Jacobus Park warming house, a nice fire in the fireplace and the promise of a variety of interesting chili recipes, warmed people's spirits and appetites (a little Bourbon didn't hurt either!).

Children buzzed around their parents' feet, until most migrated downstairs to run in abandon with new friends, and a chance to enjoy hot dogs and ice cream treats.

It was a great time to meet new members to the neighborhood, reconnect with old friends, and try to remember winners of the --cook-offs of years past. It seemed like everyone had been a winner at some point. This year's overall winners, Julie and Parker Sovey, were inspired by a recent trip to Jamaica that exposed them to jerk seasoning, which they incorporated into their spicy dish.

This year's winners had a choice of some great prizes, thanks to Mike Neumann and others, and we even had a couple of sign-ups for this summer's TGIF parties, (which are not as far off as they feel in the middle of February).

The 2019 winners include:

- Best Overall: Julie and Parker Sovey
- Best Kick: Cassie and Nick Chorak
- Best Vegetarian: Krista and Scott Boyce
- Best Presentation: Kali and Kurt Behlmer
- Most Creative: Wendy Hagamen
- Most Attractive: Brian and Sharon Bahr

Many thanks to all those who entered and helped make this another CJPNA memorable event.

The Need for Purpose and the Need for Validation

This article is a reprint of a blog posted by Adele Lund, Laureate Group's Director of Community and Business Relations for Laureate Group, which operates eight senior communities throughout the Greater Milwaukee area including Hart Park Square in Wauwatosa.

One of the more meaningful aspects of my role with Laureate Group is guiding families through unfamiliar circumstances, specifically related to long term care and their loved one. As a part of that, I often find myself sitting in a client's living room facilitating a conversation between parents and adult children. I had such an experience just recently.

It began as a phone conversation with the daughter of an elderly couple in their 90's. Dad has been trying to care for mom, but it's begun to adversely impact his own health. The family wants mom and dad to move to a senior community, but dad is resistant. When I asked what's holding him back, she indicated he's become stubborn and that has hindered their ability to have productive conversations on the subject. I asked if "stubborn" was a word they would have used to describe him for many years, or was it something new. It was new. That instantly suggested to me that he was likely struggling with something tied to his current circumstances. I offered to meet with her parents and family and see if we couldn't dig a little deeper into her dad's thoughts. It's hard to have a productive conversation when you don't know what's really on their mind.

Despite being prepared to address a "stubborn" man, I found a kind and caring soul who was overwhelmed by losses he'd faced in recent years. He could no longer drive. He used to be pretty social in his career but now found himself seeing few people each day. He'd also recently realized that he was constantly asking his family to do things for him, which is not something he was overly comfortable with. It was less about being a burden and more about feeling the loss of purpose. What was left for him when there was so much he couldn't do?

After he took me on a journey of his childhood exploits, his adult career, and his retirement, I took the opportunity to validate the many contributions he's made in his life. It wasn't until his life had been validated that we could begin to talk about the next phase of that life. We discussed the need to look forward, to consider the senior community he and his family had explored. It was important to acknowledge that there are things he can no longer do, but instead of dwelling solely upon the losses, he had to honestly consider the things he can do. He needed a little help to see that. For example, he has a magical smile that could warm the heart of anyone in his presence. He can converse with people who are lonely and would enjoy listening to his stories. And that's just the tip of the iceberg of valuable contributions he has to offer.

As we concluded our conversation, he graciously gifted me a couple toys for my grandkids. Not just any toys, but ones that he made with his own hands. Like I said...just the tip of the iceberg. ■

Jefferson Gives Back!

Inaugural Community Day Brings Students and Local Causes Together

By Megan White

On November 20th, 2018, Jefferson Elementary School held its first Community Day. Modeled after the event Wilson/WSTEM School pioneered in 2017, students in each grade worked with a local organization to learn about community needs in the Milwaukee area and how they could help. The students, staff, and over 40 volunteers worked on three projects supporting The Gathering, two projects with the Hart Park Senior Center, two projects for The Milwaukee Rescue Mission, a project for Kathy's House, and one for Feeding America. What was accomplished in one morning was amazing!

- 200 placemats decorated for The Gathering's holiday meal
- 167 bagged lunches made and assembled for The Gathering
- 150 scarves made for The Milwaukee Rescue Mission
- 21 blankets made for Kathy's House
- 27,642 pounds of food sorted and boxed at Feeding America
- 226 cans of soup collected for Feeding America
- 75 pairs of gloves collected for The Gathering
- 278 pairs of pants + 131 pajamas collected for The Milwaukee Rescue Mission totaling 145 pounds
- Many songs sung, snacks eaten, Gratitude Tree created with seniors at Hart Park

A special thanks to CJPNA for donating some of the funds needed for supplies and transportation. Look for more information in the fall about ways you can contribute to our Second Annual Community Day, November 26th, 2019! ■

Seeing the World for the First Time

Innovative therapy offers the gift of sight to local toddler

Last year we told you about McKinley Sovey, a CJPNA girl who has Leber Congenital Amaurosis, specifically a mutation of the RPE 65 gene. She was born with it and doctors said it's so rare that only about 2,000 of people have it in the country. In the months that followed, McKinley and her family pursued groundbreaking treatment in Iowa. Here, McKinley's mom Julie provides an update on the outcome of the surgery and therapy.

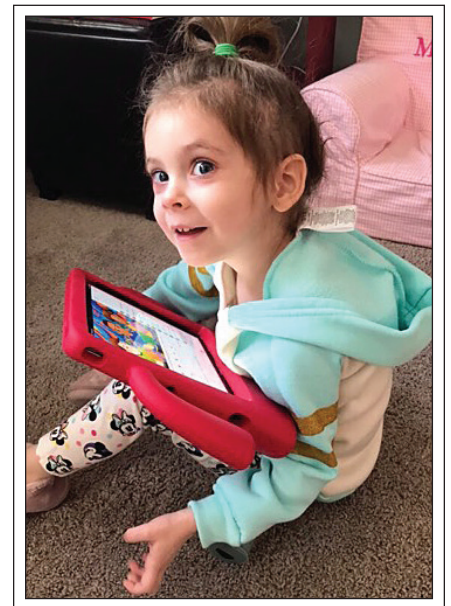

In November McKinley underwent two successful gene therapy surgeries at the University of Iowa Children's Hospital. The surgeries consisted of delivering a healthy copy of the RPE65 gene directly to each eye, behind the retina.

Shortly after the second surgery we got proof that the procedure was successful, McKinley made eye contact with us for the first time! I can only compare it to that first time your baby locks eyes with you after birth, just three years in the making.

McKinley is truly seeing the world for the first time since surgery. She is noticing and seeking out objects further away from her, including locating the string hanging from a helium balloon. She is now able to feed herself visually when before she would have to use the "touch and feel" method, which was messy. We were so excited to be able to see her eat a yogurt and actually look and see where the cup was aim the spoon appropriately.

She is much more confident navigating her space and is doing a lot less bumping into things and tripping these days. One of the biggest changes and a sight that still takes our breath away, is McKinley can now enjoy watching TV and an IPAD. We love watching her be able to enjoy some of the same things that a typical three year old does.

Thank you so much to all of our Jacobus Park Neighbors for supporting McKinley and our family through this journey! ■

J. Goll Beauty Lounge: Vintage Glam in the Neighborhood

By Jamie Goll, Beauty Lounge Owner

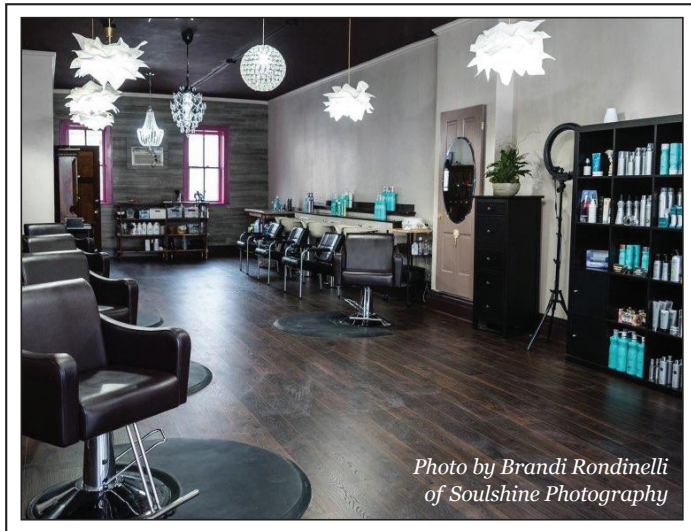

Opening her own salon was truly a dream and labor of love for Jamie Goll. It is something she has strived to accomplish for many years. J. Goll Beauty Lounge proudly opened its doors on January 2, 2019, in the space that formerly occupied by the Sampson and Delilah Salon at 6744 W. Wells Street. Jamie certainly feels quite at home here, as she has worked in this exact location as an independent stylist for the last 10 years. Jamie is very excited to open her salon at this location as the storefront has a strong history and has been operating as a hair salon since 1928.

Samson & Delilah Salon officially closed their doors on December 22, 2018. In only eight days between Christmas and the New Year, the salon was completely renovated and transformed into a stunning new space. Many people passing by during the renovation stopped in to see what was transpiring and expressed their excitement for the new salon. Although there have already been many changes, there will be even more in the coming months.

Jamie has a passion for continued education, both as a learner and a teacher. "I love educating my clients on how to properly take care of their hair and support their styles at home. We truly believe that if we stop learning, we are no longer serving

Jamie and her team have a focus on beauty, ever-changing hair styles, colors, trends, and the constantly evolving industry. In addition to studying through the American Board of Certified Haircolorists, Jamie is also a certified Head Shape Matters stylist and educator. Head Shape Matters is a patented haircutting system where the stylist creates a formula based on the guest’s individual head shape. This results in a flawless, customized haircut.

J. Goll Beauty Lounge’s mission is to serve their guests by providing a uniquely tailored vibe and experience while offering a place to relax and let go of life’s stresses at the door. “It’s an ‘orGLAMic’ feel. Quirky luxurious, organically vintage, yet glam,” states LuAnn Blohm, one of the Beauty Lounge’s stylists.

With an appreciation for the community atmosphere that Wauwatosa offers, J. Goll Beauty Lounge looks forward to working together with other local businesses to further serve our neighborhood.

The J. Goll Beauty Lounge Team is ecstatic to continue to pamper every guest. “Come on in and let us make you feel your best version of you,” says Jamie Goll. ■

Rose's - A Family Tradition Since 1949

Rose's Flower Shop, on the corner of 68th Street and Wells Street, is the featured CJPNA business member for this newsletter.

Rose's opened in Wauwatosa in 1949, named for its original owner, Rose Zorich (pictured on the left). The first Rose's was located at 826 North 68th, the current site of the Milwaukee T-Shirt Co. As the business grew, it moved into 820 North 68th Street, which is now the home of Ultimate Confections. In 1971, the corner spot opened up on 68th and Wells, and the business settled in there.

Rose was married to another well-known businessman, Sam Zorich, who owned the very popular Knotty Pine Tavern on State (formerly on the corner of 70th Street, now occupied by the Outpost parking lot).

After Rose passed away in 2001, her nephew Phil and his wife Monique Krainz carried on the family flower tradition. Rose had previously been in business with Phil's Dad, Lee, from 1950 through the year of her passing. For nearly two decades now, Phil and Monique--along with dogs Smokey, who passed away in 2010, and current canine Lilly--have been welcoming flower shoppers to the store. Monique is a past member of the CJPNA Board of Directors.

Visitors to Rose's are also treated to an impressive display of flower options as well as seasonal décor. You can view Phil's amazing collection of lunch boxes, which line the upper shelves of the shop and date back to the 50s. In addition, Rose's is currently featuring a variety of "old timey" clocks that the Krainz's recently acquired, as well as vintage pictures of the original businesses on the corner of 68th and Wells. ■

Dan Rausch and his family moved to Jacobus Park four years ago. Both Dan and his wife, Abby lived in Wauwatosa as

Dan retired after 20 years in the United States Coast Guard. He now works at GE, remanufacturing healthcare equipment such as CT scanners. Dan and Abby have two sons, Nicholas and Christopher. They all enjoy hiking in Jacobus Park with their 10 year old beagle-lab mix. ■

Project Lifesaver Wauwatosa

Bringing Loved Ones Home. The Wauwatosa Police Department is proud to provide Project Lifesaver, a proven program for safeguarding and locating individuals who may be at risk for wandering due to Alzheimer's, Autism, Down Syndrome, dementia and other conditions.

Project Lifesaver clients wear a waterproof band that emits a personalized signal (band batteries are changed every 60 days to ensure signal strength and clarity). If a Project Lifesaver client is missing, caregivers call 911 immediately, and trained search specialists arrive on site with locating equipment. Under this program, recovery times may decrease dramatically over traditional search and rescue techniques.

If you know someone that has a tendency to wander and could benefit from this program, please have their caregiver call the Wauwatosa Police Department at 414-471-8430; you can also visit www.projectlifesaver.org for additional details. ■
